About K.N. Patsios

written by Margarita Tristi

Konstantinos Patsios presents a series of works inspired by the ancient tragedy theme of Medea.

A story of love turning into hate, a transcendent situation that expresses the deterioration of everything, including the purest of human feelings, takes a turn into embodying the current situation of his country of origin, Greece.

Patsios utilizes the pictorial elements that take us back to the golden age, the cradle of democracy and all the values upon which we have since built the dream of Europe.

But the cradle is broken now, infiltrated by references to contemporary decadence, images which we try to avoid but nevertheless form of the new Zeitgeist.

His collages, with their clear cuts and overlapping cultural references, reveal multiple realities, both superficial and deeply existentialistic, intertwined into a confronting body of work.
